FALL OF SNOW WITHIN DOORS

Phenomenon That Once Actually Occurred in Stockholm Under Peculiar Conditions.

It is quite possible to have a fall of snow within doors. Indeed, the thing has actually occurred, and the cause was no other than that which produces a fall of snow in the open air—i. e., a subjection of moist atmosphere to a temperature cold enough to crystallize the drops of moisture that were formed.

The event, which is of authentic record, occurred in Stockholm. On a very cold, clear night an evening party was in progress. Many persons were gathered in a single room, and it became so warm that several women complained of feeling ill. An attempt was made to raise a window, but the sashes had been frozen in their places, and it was impossible to move them.

In these circumstances there was but one thing to do. It was necessary that air should be admitted, so a pane of glass was smashed. Immediately a cold current of air rushed in, and at the same instant flakes of snow were seen to fall to the floor in all parts of the room. The entrance of a frosty current into an atmosphere saturated with moisture had produced a snowfall indoors.—Harper's Weekly.

Cause of Explosions in Flour Mills.
An English firm of millers, troubled with dust explosions, set about discovering the cause of ignition of the dust. The mills use the steel roller process of patent flour, and iron or steel particles in the grain were suspected of coming in contact with the steel rolls and emitting the spark, causing the explosions.

Accordingly, an apparatus was designed by which all the grain subject to the rolls first was passed over highly magnetized steel arresters. The result was strikingly in proof of the theory. These electro magnets collected steel and iron particles ranging from the microscopic up to box nails several inches long. With a standard equipment of arresters capable of passing 1,000 bushels of grain an hour, so much metal collects that several times a day the magnets must be swung aside and brushed clean of their accumulation.—Chicago Tribune.

HIS CREDENTIALS STRONG

Reformed Burglar Secured Job Selling Safes, Although Business Was Rather Dull.

"We are not taking on any new traveling men just now," the safe manufacturer said. "Business is rather dull in our line."

"Well, if you need one, let me know," said the applicant for a job. "I'd rather sell your safe than any there is in the market. It's the best."

"Are you an expert?"

"Yes, sir, I know all there is to be known about safes."

"Ever deal in them?"

"No, sir."

"Ever work in a factory?"

"No, sir."

"How do you know ours is the best?"

"Because it takes longest to break into it."

"How do you know that?"

"I'm a reformed burglar."

He got the job.

Fat Men Not Molested.

R. W. Douglass, state entomologist, felt that his field of operations was growing larger a few days ago when an excited citizen, evidently an admirer of trees, telephoned him in the interests of two large trees on a lot in North Illinois street.

"These trees are beauties," said Mr. Douglass' informant, "but I fear they are about to be ruined. The family living on the lot has stretched a hammock between them."

"Well, a hammock doesn't injure trees if properly hung," replied Mr. Douglass.

"Yes, but this is different," returned the informant. "You see, this is a strong hammock, the strongest I ever saw, and every day at noon two big fat men sit in it for an hour. I don't see how it can avoid killing the trees."

Mr. Douglass declined to interfere with the fat men's rest.—Indianapolis News.

WOMAN HAD OVERLOOKED BET

Didn't Know What She Had Forgotten, but Returns Home With Money After Shopping.

She had just returned from a shopping tour, tired, but radiant. He had just returned from the office, tired, but—well, tired.

Quivering with delight at the array of samples snipped from rolls of dress goods, she emptied the contents of her purse into her lap. There was a metallic sound. A look of dismay crossed her face.

"There!" she exclaimed. "I just knew there was something I had forgotten to buy."

"What was it, dear?" he asked with an assumption of interest.

"I'm sure I don't know," she replied petulantly, "but I find I have a half dollar left!"
